New cell phone fee will raise $$$ for 911

by Cheryll Ruley
Staff Writer

Crawford County's 911 Central Dispatch now qualifies to receive funds collected from cellular or wireless telephone customers to help pay for the public service.

The Crawford County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution at their November 17 regular meeting, adopting a Final 911 Service Plan the amended Emergency Telephone Enabling Act, 1986 PA 32.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) has issued a wireless emergency service order requiring central dispatch centers to request deployment of Phase II 911 enhanced services from commercial mobile radio service suppliers, including cellular phone companies.

The County Board was required to adopt the Plan implementing the wireless emergency service order and act in order to qualify for distributions from an emergency telephone fund administered by the Department of Treasury.

Mobile phone users in the area can expect to pay a 55-cent per month surcharge for the first two years, once the Plan is in effect, after that the monthly fee will be lowered to 52¢. The surcharge is similar to the one paid by regular phone customers for 911.

The 52¢ surcharge is broken down as follows: one half of 1¢ goes to the phone companies to help pay the cost of billing and collections; 25¢ goes to phone companies

GRA retains Hanson Hills land lease

The State of Michigan Department of Military Affairs State Military Board has extended the land lease to Grayling Recreation Authority (GRA) for the use of land at Hanson Hills Recreation Authority for another 15 years. The lease will be in effect until 2014.

"We are thrilled with the extension of our lease," commented Cindy Olson, GRA Director. "It really shows that the Military Board is happy with what we are doing here at Hanson Hills, and that they are very supportive of our efforts."

The Grayling Recreation Authority manages the land on a non-profit basis. Anyone interested in learning more about or getting involved in GRA may visit their website at www.hansonhills.org or call (517) 348-9266.

A high-speed chase in the wee hours of last Friday morning ended in the arrest of a Port Huron man and a two-hour power outage in Frederic.

At about 3:50 a.m., November 19, 31-year old Scott Gilbert made an illegal U-turn near mile marker 253 on I-75, right in front of a state trooper squad car.

Gilbert accelerated his 1990 Pontiac Sunbird as Michigan State Police troopers out of Houghton Lake pursued him at high speed northbound on I-75 until he exited at the I-75 Business Loop in Grayling.

Grayling Police joined the pursuit as Gilbert made his way through town and proceeded up Old US27 north through Frederic, still traveling well above posted speeds.

Once Gilbert crossed the Crawford/Otsego County line, personnel assigned to the Gaylord Michigan State Police (MSP) Post got in on the act.

Gaylord MSP troopers welcomed Gilbert into their jurisdiction with "stop sticks," puncturing his tires to slow down the speeding Pontiac.

At 4:08 a.m., and about one-half mile up Old US27 near Waters, Gilbert lost control of his vehicle, crossed the center line, and had an 80 mile-per-hour head-on collision with a Consumers Power electric service pole on the west side of the road. The pole snapped, knocking out service to 800 customers in neighboring Frederic and the Otsego Lake area.

Consumers Power spokesman John Hall said power was restored to all customers within two hours of the accident.

Michigan State Police Sgt. Tom Valdez reported the Pontiac to be a total loss, however Gilbert was not seriously injured because he was wearing his seat belt. Gilbert was treated and released from Otsego Memorial Hospital later that morning.

Valdez said Gilbert was transported to Oakland County, where he will undergo a psychological examination to determine what caused the 31-year old to take officers, from three departments, on such a dangerous high speed chase.

Valdez did not indicate if Gilbert was wanted on any outstanding traffic violations or warrants, nor did he indicate if alcohol was a factor.

Gilbert could possibly be charged with fleeing/cluding police.

► Proposal would result in tower being placed on Road Commission land

by Caleb Casey

Cell telephone and radio communication signals may get a boost in the Lovells Township area, if a proposed communication tower is installed on a parcel of property belonging to the Road Commission for Crawford County, as requested.

The Road Commissioners recently received a preliminary proposal from Cherry Capital Real Estate on behalf of RFB Cellular Inc. of Gaylord for a long term lease of the Road Commission property, to be used for a cellular telephone tower.

Vice-Chairman Robert Nelson suggested the Road Commission try to work a stipulation into the agreement allowing the Road Commission to put a repeater on the tower, which could improve radio communications for not only the Road Commission, but the Sheriff's Department and 911 emergency services as well, improving county safety.

Lovells is currently "kind of a dead area" for such transmissions, the commissioners said.

"There isn't much service out there," said Road Board Chairman Ray Swiercz.

Nelson moved to approve the temporary request in order "to move it along," and the board voted 2-0 in favor of the motion.

Brother feels privileged to give the gift of life

Consider becoming a donor as we give thanks

by Cherryl Rulley
Staff Writer

What do you do when your 45-year old sister tells you that she may die without a transplant? At age 39, doctors diagnosed Susan Briney with myofibrosis, a disease that causes bone marrow to become fibrous, shutting down the immune system and leaving her no way to fight infection or even the common cold. Her brother, James Briney, wanted to help, as did her sisters Barb Hagaman and Jeanne Crouch.

Susan's body fought back in many ways. Her spleen tried desperately to make up for the loss of white blood cells, enlarging to 11 pounds — 23 times its normal size. Doctors removed her spleen in a surgical procedure they considered risky because of Susan's weakened immune system. Then the clock started ticking.

She was told she would need a progenitor or "stem cell" transplant — a procedure that, when using a donor, would change her own DNA to that of the donor. Stem cells are immature cells that grow and divide into mature red blood cells, white blood cells, or platelets. The type of blood cell that a progenitor cell will develop into is determined by the specific needs of the body, and through the stimulus of special substances called "growth factors."

Some myofibrosis and other patients, able to benefit from this type of transplant, can provide their own stem cells if their condition has not yet weakened. Susan would need a donor to help restore her bone marrow function.

The chances of finding a donor is one in 200,000 of the general population, however studies have found that one in four family members are a match.

The donor would have to be willing to undergo months of preparation, both mentally and physically. The donor would be asked to become vigilant about eating well, resting properly, getting sufficient exercise, and refraining from taking any unnecessary medication long before the stem cell donation. In turn, Susan would have to begin paying closer attention to her own eating habits and taking the best care of herself as possible, to ensure maximum benefit from the transplant.

Susan's siblings discussed with doctors the viability of one of them becoming her donor. It was discovered that her brother, James, would be a suitable donor and he began to prepare two years in advance of the transplant.

The procedure would take place, as soon as Susan could tolerate, at Fairview University Hospital in Minneapolis, near Susan's home in Mankato, Minnesota.

The hospital is a pioneer in peripheral blood progenitor cell collection, using the procedure in a study of treatment for various types of cancers. Susan would be the 27th myofibrosis patient to receive the innovative treatment developed by teachers and doctors in Ecuador.

Last June, the time finally arrived for James to travel to Minnesota and undergo 10 days of medical preparation and testing. This included an electrocardiogram (EKG), a day-long blood work session and several injections of stem cell growth factor medication over five days.

Growth factor causes the release of a large number of peripheral blood progenitor cells into the donor's bloodstream. When the doctor has determined that the white blood cell count has increased to a sufficient level — between six to 17 times the normal level — stem cell collection can begin.

While James was being prepared, Susan underwent two days of chemotherapy treatment and four days of full body radiation treatment, virtually destroying her own DNA.

Once James' white blood cell count reached high levels, he was hooked up to a blood cell separator that takes blood from the donor, running it through a centrifuge to separate and collect the blood cells.

There are risks of complications and even the possibility of death with the procedure, however experts report greater than 25,000 collections performed annually worldwide and another one million similar procedures resulting in few problems.

"I have learned a lot about giving and patience," Susan said, just a week before Thanksgiving. "I have been listening to the tapes provided by Sister Jean Umlor, and reading and thinking about healing. I am very thankful to have the care and support provided for myself and my family. It is wonderful to know that people in northern Michigan are praying for me."

James agrees that many people have been supportive, especially his wife. "She's an angel," he said. James remarked not too many people were aware of stem cell transplants and would like Susan's story to be used to increase awareness of the need for donors of all kinds — blood, stem cell, bone marrow, vital organs, tissue and eyes.

"In my personal, professional, public and spiritual life," James said. "I like to be involved in situations where I can be useful without being used." Becoming a donor is one such situation, he said. "It was a privilege to be able to go through this for, and with, my sister whom I love and helped raise."

A donor sticker is provided with Michigan drivers licenses and identification cards through the Secretary of State office. Secretary of State Candice Miller is currently campaigning to get more people to fill out the sticker and become a potential donor.

Anyone wishing to become a bone marrow donor or stem cell donor should call 1-800-MARROW-2 (1-800-627-7092) for more information.

Annual Christmas show undergoes renovation

Tickets on sale for December 2 performance

Over the years, one of the premier shows offered through the Cultural Events Series has been the popular Christmas Special. Each year, this one-performance-only presentation in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium, is a sell-out, and it appears this will be the case as well for the 1999 edition.

The repertoire for this event, featuring both serious and the popular music of the holidays, will undergo some changes for the 7:30 p.m., December 2 show sure to delight area patrons. "There is nothing like a live variety show during the holidays to really enhance the spirit of the season," said Cultural Events coordinator R.J. Hannan.

Each year, this popular family show performs to an audience consisting of people from all over the greater Crawford County area.

This year's production is called "The Many Scenes of Christmas" and will feature a variety of performers, including the return of The Classical Bells, the Detroit area's premier bell-ringing group.

Also performing will be the Oakland Brass, Royal Oak Children's Honor Choir, and the Michigan Singers.

Tickets for this unreserved seating, one-time performance are now on sale to the general public and are available at Crawford AuSable

School Central Office, 403 Michigan Avenue, Grayling. Call the Community Education Office at Grayling High School, 348-7641, ext. 123 or 120, to secure tickets by phone; Visa and MasterCard accepted.

Individual tickets are $6 per person, with family and special group blocks of tickets available at special prices.

The Christmas Special is brought to the community by the Crawford AuSable Community Education Program in partnership with Area Businesses & Corporations and Michigan Council for Arts & Cultural Affairs.

had positive experience working with him in the past. He said he has discussed with his superiors at Camp Grayling the possibility of any conflict of interest concerning county and military road work, then commented, "There are two other board members who vote on the issues."

Perry has served in the Michigan National Guard for nearly 20 years and currently is the Director of Facility Engineering at the Camp Grayling National Guard Training Center.

According to Perry's application, he is the principle assistant to the Post Commander for facility management and maintenance. Further, he deals with "an annual budget of $2.9 million with 43 permanent and seasonal employees. The physical plant includes 460 buildings, a domestic water supply, waste water treatment plant, electrical power distribution system, and 146,000 acres with 100 miles of roads."

Perry currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Camp Grayling Officers Club and Camp Grayling Chapel. He is also the president of the Messiah Lutheran Church council in Roscommon.

"I have a wide variety of knowledge," Perry states in his application. "I'm not an expert at many things. I know enough to make an informed decision when provided specific information on a subject."

Perry said he would like to become involved in the community and serving on the Road Commission is a way to be involved by doing something he likes and is trained to do.

For the first two years only, 3¢ of each monthly surcharge will go to the Michigan State Police to fund researching of priority issues concerning 911 services. Emergency Management Director Larry Akers said the research will help identify areas receiving inadequate 911 coverage and get those communities up to speed.

Akers said he won't know until next summer how much Crawford County 911 Central Dispatch will receive in new revenue, but he estimates $60,000 to $80,000 per year.

OPINIONS

ALMANACK

by Richard Millman

There's plenty for which to be thankful

(Note: The following essay first appeared in The Almanack a couple of years ago. If you read it then, we invite you to do so again ... the sentiments are unchanged. If you missed it then, here's a second chance. Happy Thanksgiving!)

WHEN PILGRIMS more than 350 years ago decided to offer special thanks to Almighty God for a plentiful harvest, they probably had no idea how the Thanksgiving holiday they unintentionally inaugurated in this country would develop.

In those days, they had no thought of football games or Christmas shopping or just sitting on the couch, belching, after a huge meal.

They had in mind a simpler routine. They were getting along all right in a strange and harsh land, and -- religious folk that they were -- they knew there was a higher influence in their progress.

Recognizing this, they bowed their heads and said, in essence, "Thank you, God, for all you've done for us."

They knew about God, and revered God, because that was the reason most of them came across the ocean in the first place.

And, while they were at it, giving thanks on that cold November day, why not celebrate a bit? Why not invite over a few of the friends and neighbors to share their good fortunes and have a big dinner?

And so they did. Foreign settlers and Native Americans sat down together, in peace and friendship, and shared their gifts of harvest.

Really, it's an amazing and refreshing story.

* * *

BUT THAT was then, and this is now. Why should we, today, here in America, be thankful?

Sure, we have plenty to eat. The supermarket is always full of food, and most of us can have anything we want to eat and drink. It's been that way for a long time.

Most of us, by most standards, are pretty well off. Most of us are happy, more or less, and we're at peace in the world, relatively speaking, so why get all soft and mushy about thanking God for what's happening to us?

And besides, these days who -- or what -- is God anyway? We can't talk about God in some classrooms. In some places, we can't even admit God exists. And is there really God after all? Isn't God just one of several theories?

So why don't we forget all that gooey stuff, and settle down to a big dinner, and eat too much, then plop in front of the tube and watch a football game, and everybody go shopping tomorrow.

* * *

IF WE REALLY get serious about it, each of us has something special to appreciate.

How about progress itself?

A few years ago, at a Thanksgiving mass at St. Ignatius Church in Rogers City, Fr. John Rushman offered a little different twist than one might expect in a sermon at a Catholic mass.

Fr. Rushman reminded us that our forefathers did without sugar until the 13th century ... without coal fires until the 14th century ... without buttered bread until the 16th.

They did without tea or soap until the 17th century ... without gas, matches or electricity until the 19th ... without cars, canned or frozen foods until the 20th.

Now, asked Fr. Rushman rhetorically, what was it you were complaining about?

Each of us can add our own favorite luxuries to this list -- indoor plumbing, television, saran wrap, microwave ovens, and on and on.

The point: Even if we don't feel thankful for intangible blessings such as love and health and family, there are plenty of material gifts which none of us earned, but which all of us can enjoy, and for which all of us can be thankful.

* * *

FOR MYSELF, as Fr. Rushman suggested in that homily a few years back, I appreciate and am thankful for all those things we take for granted but don't deserve by our own merit, such as soap, and electricity, and frozen foods.

And I am even more thankful for other things which I did not earn on my own either, but which I treasure and strive to deserve ... such as life itself, and health, and love, and ability, and opportunity, and family, and children and grandchildren.

I know, too, from where these blessings come, and where my thanks should be directed, especially on Thanksgiving Day, but also on every other day as well.

But if I said so right out loud these days in public places such as some classrooms, I might be hauled into court.

For that ironic twist on the meaning of our first Thanksgiving Day, I am not thankful at all.

Richard Millman is a veteran newspaperman and a contributing columnist to several Michigan newspapers.

EDITOR

Microsoft 1, government 0

To the editor,

Many years ago, a company called Microsoft, who was in every respect a vendor of IBM's, was asked to jointly develop an operating system that would have a Graphical User Interface (to replace the old operating system DOS) to be called WARP, or OS2.

While doing so, Microsoft had a different opinion as to what the market needed, and, largely because IBM did not share that opinion, started developing their own operating system later to be called Windows.

Microsoft, as has been noted even in books by Louis Gerstner, the later IBM Chief, pleaded with IBM to accept these changes and allow them to be included in WARP. IBM, as history has shown, disagreed vehemently, and made it clear to Microsoft that they alone had the vision of the future, and they alone would determine what the public "needed."

At this point, Microsoft, who's entire annual sales were less than IBM's quarterly profits, decided to go it alone and let the market decide.

Microsoft, a company who's annual profits at that time, were less than what IBM spent on airfare ... for just their sales staff, could easily have been crushed by IBM's marketplace muscle.

And yet, the marketplace agreed, as they often do, that a product that was superior, cheaper in every way to the competitions, and more functional in allowances to the functionality of their computers, enabling them, the consumer, to do more, with less, would win the day.

Since then, computers have gotten cheaper, as has software. Programs that required a learning curve commensurate with a four-year degree are now learned in increments of 15 and 30 minutes.

Their abilities and usefulness have increased hundreds if not thousands of fold, and because of all this, the United States is the productivity and financial envy of the world, and nations around the globe stand at our shores daily asking one simple question: "How'd they do that?"

Imagine: The government says that Microsoft has the monopoly power to be able to hold the consumer to the flame over pricing, yet word processing software that previously fit onto two floppy disks that used to sell for $600, now sells for $350, fits onto the equivalent of 85 similar disks (indeed, a CD), and includes Database, Presentation, Spreadsheet, Graphical and Publishing, Email, Organizational, Contact and other software.

This must be new math the government is using. I always thought that getting nine times the products, with 200 times the capability for half the price was a good thing. Shows you what I, a dumb consumer, knows.

Lastly, the government tells me in their documents that Microsoft's "predatory" pricing have caused other companies to lose market share, and further, that if not for this, other firms would make more money, increasing their market share, giving the consumer more choice, and presumably, better products.

So, explain this to me then: If Microsoft charges $350 for its Office Suite and makes 40%+ profit on same (and people are clamoring for it), and Lotus charges $165 for theirs (and consumers avoid it in droves) and makes less than 4%, wouldn't forcing Microsoft to lower the price for their product, thereby forcing Lotus to respond in kind by lowering their price, effectively wipe out Lotus's (and Oracle, Novell, etc.) margin to the point that they'd be paying the consumer $80 for every office suite sold, and put Microsoft eventually in a position of 100% dominance instead of the 80%+ market share they now enjoy?

Thank God the government has seen fit to protect me from this evil onslaught of the Goliath in Redmond that has only done what we'd all been asking for since the beginning of the computer revolution: "Would you mind making it easier for us to use, please?"

Soon, thanks to our Justice Department, this horrible nightmare of great products, lower pricing and superior functionality will soon be behind us.

I was getting worried there for a while.

Pastor 'B' responds to gay issue

To the editor,

Our thanks to Terry Dickinson for reading and responding to our column in the Avalanche. We respect the religious freedom and 1st Amendment right of Mr. Dickinson to clearly and openly express his views.

Mr. Dickinson does not believe the God of the Bible has kept His promises to preserve His Holy Word. He believes the Bible is "filled with errors and contradictions." He believes Bible-believing churches are perpetuating "thousands-of-years-old-prejudice." He believes families are "stuck in the church's morality attitude." He believes the hope of homosexuals is in "self-acceptance" rather than repentance and salvation through faith in Jesus Christ. He apparently believes God created homosexuality in people as a diverse yet normal human condition.

It appears then that Mr.

Dickinson blames most of the homosexual problems in our culture upon the prejudice and narrow views of those of us who follow God and the Bible.

What is Mr. Dickinson's hope for homosexuals? He praised Levi Strauss for sponsoring young people to understand homosexuality at an adult Gay, Lesbian, Straight Education Network conference. He said, "I applaud their courage and compassion."

Mr. Dickinson has done all of us a favor by publicly reminding us of why our personal faith and testimony as Bible-believing Christians is important. Are we teaching our children and grandchildren to believe and obey God and the Bible? Or, are we leaving their young minds open to the efforts of rich corporations like Levi Strauss and lobbies like the Gay, Lesbian, Straight Education Network? Remember, what they are won with, is what they are won to!

Have you taught your children God's Word in Jude 1:7? "Even as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities about them in like manner, giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire." Have you taught your children God's Word in 2 Peter 2:6? "And turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes condemned them with an overthrow, making them an example unto those that after should live ungodly."

Are you trusting the future of your children to God or man? (Joshua 24:15) "And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, choose you this day whom ye will serve ... but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD."

The Bible is old, but 'accurate'

To the editor,

Last week on this page, the Bible was unfairly criticized by a letter writer who was, otherwise, very eloquent. He seemed to represent the politically correct crowd that all too often misinterprets the parable wherein Jesus is quoted, "He who is without sin, may throw the first stone." (You may recall, James, Carville, Larry Flint (sic) and numerous other liberals including Rep. Bart Stupak used this quote to defuse and dislodge (sic) Special Prosecutor Starr's investigation, and the subsequent show trial, without witnesses or evidence of this most lawless President.)

By leaving out the rest of the quote, "Go forth and sin no more."

We miss the very heart of the message... that he should "go forth."

A truly great leader would have recognized this and left.

This week a Washington Post survey indicated that the President is perceived as the second most evil person of this century by fellow Americans. While the Greeks are demonstrating against him in behalf of the many dead people in nations too numerous to mention here. All this and he still has another year to lead us into the next century. Heaven help us!

A lesson the parable provides is that we should condemn the sin and love the sinner. Surely the words, "Go forth and sin no more" did not mean that we should have a prostitute for a leader and, certainly, the listeners in the crowd knew that they themselves should carry on without sinning. Their lesson surely did not bring them to retreat to the brothel, nor did it bring them to enable others to debauchery, depending on what the meaning of "is?"

Also, archaeologists, chemists and other researchers are today proving the Bible quite accurate in their research and diggings at the site of Sodom and Gomorrah along the River Jordan. Genesis 18:19 tells us, and modern day geologists verify, that the wicked and their enablers, did not have a happy ending.

In the meantime, let's not trash the Bible, nor our Constitution for being too old. Let's export them, rather than Monica bombs.

Unsafe road made right

To the editor, and to the South Branch Township Supervisor and the Crawford County Road Commission:

Once again, we owe you for a job well done.

We had a very unsafe condition on a hill on Willows Road.

After making one request, this matter was worked on, we now have a safe two-lane road going up and over the hill.

Future flight is the focus of year 2000 art contest

■ Universe is the limit for youths interested in poster art competition

While many are focusing attention on Y2K readiness, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) is encouraging young artists to imagine what flight will be like beyond the new millennium by entering the Year 2000 International Aviation Art Contest.

"Most of us have grown accustomed to associating intergalactic space travel with the 21st century," said State Transportation Director James DeSana.

"This year's contest theme, Flight Into the Future, inspires youths to explore the exciting possibilities of sporting and recreational aviation as well. The universe is the limit for imagining how aviation and aerospace can impact our future."

Open to young people aged six through 17, the annual contest is designed to foster a life-long interest.

est in aviation and aerospace by encouraging students to combine their imagination with artistic talent. Entries may be submitted using watercolors, acrylic or oil paints, markers, pencils, pens, crayons, and even computers.

The contest is sponsored at the state level by MDOT. Other sponsors include the National Aeronautic Association, the National Association of State Aviation Officials, the Federal Aviation Administration, and the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale.

Entries will be judged in three separate age categories, with first, second and third place winners selected in each. First place winners in each category will advance to the national competition in Washington, D.C.

National winners will compete with entries from other nations late next spring. Computer art will be judged at the state and national levels only.

The MDOT Bureau of Aeronautics is accepting entries

Correction

In an article titled, "No one harmed in shooting incident," published in the November 18 issue of the Crawford County Avalanche, information regarding Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy Randy Baerlocher was incorrect. Initial reports of the shooting indicated Baerlocher was narrowly missed by a gunshot. In actuality, Crawford County Sheriff's Deputy Paul Smith was the victim. We apologize for the error and any confusion it may have caused.

Surviving the Holidays grief workshop offered

A free workshop entitled "Surviving the Holidays" will be offered December 3 by Mercy Amicare Homecare & Hospice.

Holidays are typically a difficult time for people who have experienced a loss. The workshop teaches ways to cope with grief this holiday season.

The program will describe the various stages of grief, recognizing the signs of having difficulty coping with grief and resources available to assist individuals who are experiencing emotional difficulties this season.

The workshop will be held at Grayling Mercy Hospital in the Private Dining Room, from 12 noon to 1 p.m. Attendees may bring a brown bag lunch.

Presenters will be Karen Henderlong, Grayling Mercy Hospital Chaplain, and Mary Beth Detting, Bereavement Coordinator for Mercy Amicare Homecare & Hospice.

For more information, contact Sherry Haag at (517) 348-4383.

KCC offers online courses

In addition to its regular classes, Kirtland Community College will again offer both Telecourses and Online Courses for the winter semester, which begins January 21.

Telecourses are a convenient, flexible way to pursue a college education. Students are required to view all video lessons, complete all assignments and exams as directed by the Instructor and attend scheduled on-campus classes.

Students interested in any of the following telecourses should call the college at (517) 275-5000 and contact the Instructor directly at his or her extension number, for orientation session dates and times, registration and additional information:

Accounting Principles I; Accounting Principles II (Instructor for both courses - Ed Balis, ext. 293); Cultural Anthropology (Marty Rosenson, ext. 390); Principles of Economics - MICRO (Larry Murray, ext. 278); Introduction to American Government (Sinan Toprak, ext. 265); and Introduction to Psychology (Jim Backlund, ext. 336).

Online courses: If you have a connection to the Internet and an e-mail address; if you are familiar with computers; if your computer has Pentium or PowerMac with 28.8 Kbps or faster modem and 64 MB or more of RAM, then the chances are good you are equipped for one or more of these courses. Students must register "online" to enroll in these courses.

For information on the courses and on registering, go to: <http://www.kirtland.cc.mi.us/online/>

Lisa Balbach is the instructor for the first four courses. Microsoft Office; Internet; Web Pages; and Advanced Web Pages; English Composition I (Instructor - Jon Thompson); English Composition II (Instructor Fred Giacobazzi); and Introduction to Psychology (Instructor - Jim Backlund).

HAGLUND'S DEFORMITY

Haglund's Deformity begins as a light red, hardened, tender spot high on the back of the heel. The condition is caused by an inflammation of the fluid-filled sac (bursa) that sits between the heel skin and the Achilles tendon, which attaches the calf muscle to the heel bone. When the inflamed bursa gets bigger, a red lump appears under the skin of the heel and causes pain at and above the heel. The swelling may harden if the deformity becomes chronic. Most often, women who wear high-heeled shoes develop Haglund's Deformity. In mild cases, applying ice helps reduce inflammation, while wearing foam rubber or felt heel pads may relieve pressure on the heel. More serious cases often require anti-inflammatory drugs.

Bearing all of the body's weight with every step, the heel is subject to considerable stress. Weight gain, high impact athletic activities, even prolonged walking or standing increase such stress. When heel pain is the body's answer to this stress, there are both temporary and permanent treatments to eliminate the problems. Any treatment, however, begins with a call to your local podiatrist. Located at 1209 E. 8th Street, Traverse City, GRAND TRAVERSE FOOT & ANKLE CENTER, P.C. welcomes new patients for complete family foot care. Call 922-9100 and (800) 968-7440. Offices in Traverse City, also Kalkaska Memorial Health Center Monday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings.

P.S. Surgical removal of part of the heel bone is sometimes recommended to treat chronic cases of Haglund's Deformity.

The Bible Speaks

Thanksgiving to God

Ingratitude toward God and His reversion is the first sign of a nation drifting into sinful paganism and cultural degeneration. (Romans 1:21-25) "Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God; neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened. {22} Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools. {23} And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and fourfooted beasts, and creeping things. {24} Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonor their own bodies between themselves: {25} Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen."

We owe everything of real value to God! He is our creator, redeemer, sustainer, coming King, and future hope. Every good we possess came not from government, but from God. (James 4:17) "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." God's greatest gift was eternal salvation through His Son, Jesus Christ. (John 3:16) "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (2 Corinthians 9:15) "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift." (Romans 6:23) "For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

May we take every opportunity this Thanksgiving season to give thanks unto our God. (Psalms 106:1) "Praise ye the LORD; O give thanks unto the LORD; for he is good; for his mercy endureth for ever." (Psalms 92:1) "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the LORD, and to sing praises unto the LORD, and to make known his deeds among the people. {2} Sing unto him, sing psalms unto him; talk ye of all his wondrous works. {3} Glory ye in his holy name; let the heart of them rejoice that seek the LORD. {4} Seek the LORD, and his strength: seek his face evermore. {5} Remember his marvellous works that he hath done; his wonders, and the judgments of his mouth; {6} O ye seed of Abraham his servant, ye children of Jacob his chosen. {7} He is the LORD our God; his judgments are in all the earth. {8} He hath remembered his covenant for ever, the word which he commanded to a thousand generations."

May we pause this Thanksgiving Season with our families and friends to worship God for His greatness and His manifold gifts to us through Jesus Christ our Lord. He alone is worthy of our gratitude for the abundance of blessings we possess in these United States of America. No nation on earth has been more blessed. May we express our love to Him who first loved us.

Church Directory

As the air becomes cold and the branches bare, it is apparent that the season of Thanksgiving is near. We cook turkey and stuffing and all sorts of wonderful offerings behind windows that steam as the crispness of fall meets the warmth of bubbling pans of gravy. Grocery stores strain to meet the demand as the big day nears.

It is the morning of Thanksgiving. One by one, the family arrives from near and far. Doors and hearts open wide for each guest as we greet those whom we do not see often and some whom we do. Finally it is time to join our hands in prayer and give thanks for God's blessings throughout the year.

Of course, everyone does not celebrate Thanksgiving in this same fashion, yet, if we open the door and let God into our hearts, we all can be thankful for the continual blessings of God working in our lives. Visit God's House each week. New blessings await. Happy Thanksgiving!

Holiday meal doesn't have to put on pounds

Thanksgiving is a time for family visits, good food, and -- if you're not careful -- weight gain. Marilyn Nakamoto, dietitian and director of the U-M Health Service Nutrition Center, says that the average person gains five pounds during the holiday season, starting with the Thanksgiving feast.

"Many of the foods we eat at Thanksgiving have a high fat content," said Nakamoto. "The skin of the turkey, the stuffing, the candied sweet potatoes, all of these are very high in fat."

So, how can we avoid Turkey Day weight gain? "By making wise food choices," said Nakamoto. Cooking the stuffing outside of the turkey reduces its fat content, as does baking sweet potatoes, instead of loading them with butter, sugar and marshmallows in a casserole.

Pumpkin, an excellent source of beta carotene and vitamin A, is much healthier served as a custard, instead of a pie in a fat-laden crust.

However, "we have to be realistic," said Nakamoto. "For one holiday meal, people should be allowed to eat their favorite foods." So, if you can't do without Aunt Martha's candied yams, indulge yourself -- but wisely. "Eat small amounts of your favorites, and don't eat until you're stuffed, only until you're satisfied," advised Nakamoto.

Also, keep up your exercise program. "Many people stop going to the gym when they get busy around the holidays, but that's just when they should be going," said Nakamoto. "Exercise keeps weight down, suppresses the appetite and relieves holiday stress."

Thanksgiving tradition thousands of years old

What Americans call the First Thanksgiving was not the first one at all, according to Eric Rabkin, professor of English at the University of Michigan. In fact, the Pilgrims drew on customs that are several centuries old.

"The Pilgrims knew about religious festivals of thanksgiving, probably including the ancient Greek celebration of the bounty of Demeter and certainly including the Jewish Sukkoth," said Rabkin.

Subscribe Today! 348-6811

Demeter, the Greek goddess of grain, fertility and the harvest, is also responsible for the changing of the seasons, according to Greek mythology.

Sukkoth is an annual Jewish celebration, and a combination harvest, thanksgiving, and pilgrimage festival. "I can't help but think the Mayflower group, especially after decimation by illness and harsh winter, had these festivals in mind come the next harvest," said Rabkin.

ASIP workers slide the second corner panel into place, butting it up against the first piece.

Michigan based company uses new construction method

► Insulated panel company offers an alternative to the 'stick-built' structure

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

A new way to build homes and other structures, in place of the traditional "stick-building" method, is starting to grow in popularity.

"It's like working with legos," said Mike Dreasky of Advanced Structural Insulated Panel (ASIP).

ASIP, which has offices in Grayling and Flint, manufactures the "legos." Actually, the building blocks are panels that are put up and interlock with each other at the base and the side seams using a special adhesive and screws.

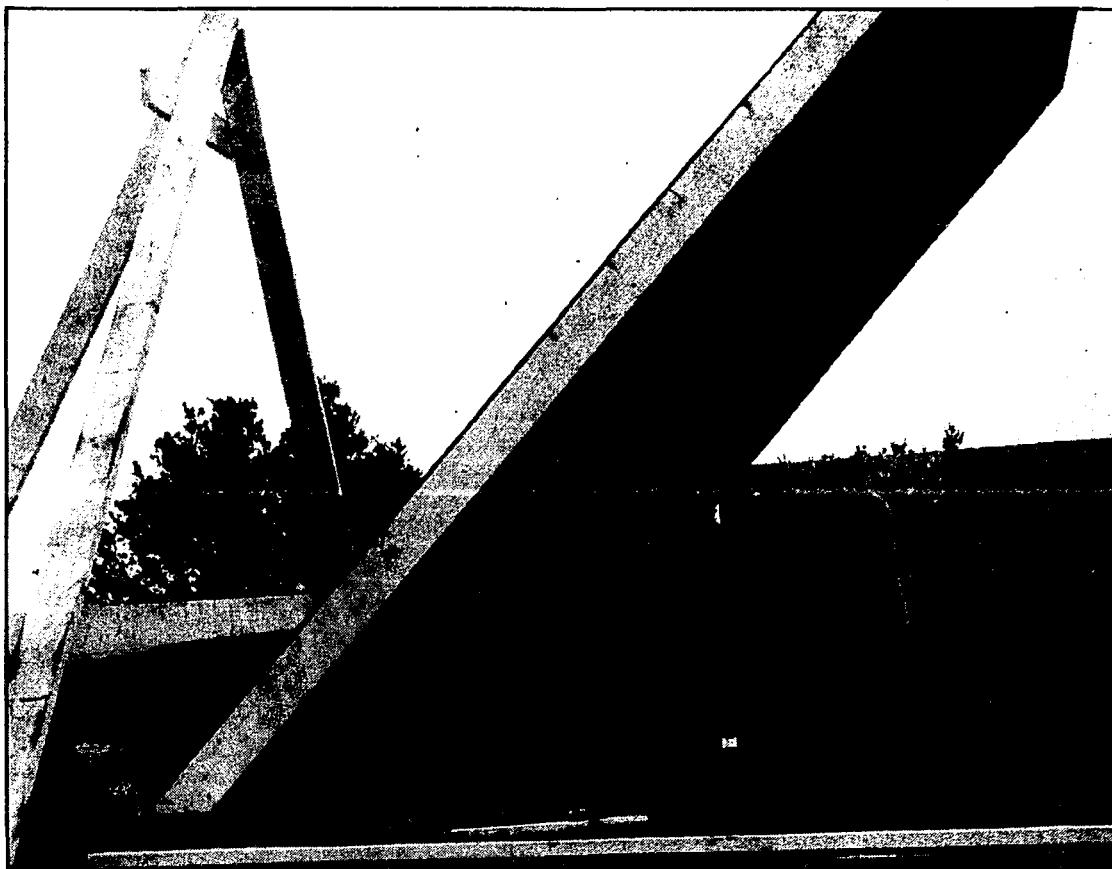

The panels are like an insulation sandwich. The two outside surfaces are structure board, and styrofoam insulation fills the space in between the sheets of OSB. Two-inch studs on the edges help provide strength and stability.

Building with the panels is faster, uses less material, and is friendlier on an environmental level, said Dreasky.

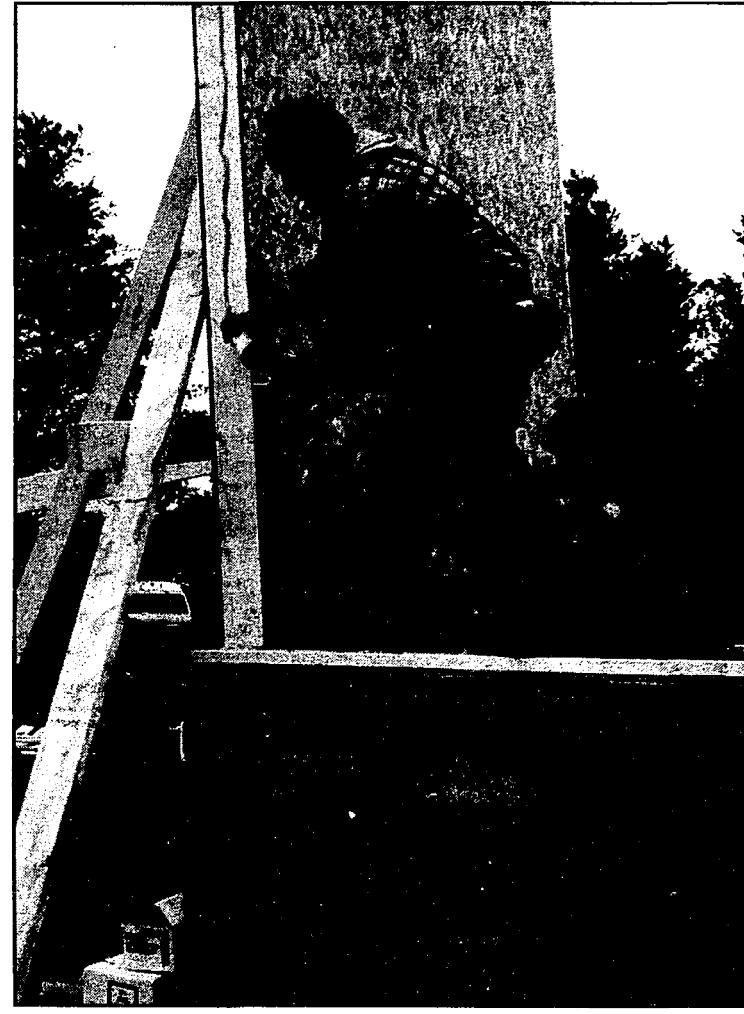

"There's no waste," he said. "It uses a whole lot less wood, and is more environmentally friendly."

"This construction style is very popular on Mackinaw Island and Beaver Island," said Dreasky, because of the finished building's roof strength (for supporting heavy snow burdens) and because the buildings can be put up faster.

Another big advantage of using the panels is the effectiveness of the insulation, which saves on heating costs, Dreasky said.

Workers from the Advanced Structural Insulated Panel crew put up a wall on a new building in Roscommon, using the company's pre-built insulated panels.

"Tax funded buildings have been a good market for me, because it costs so much less to heat," he said. "You can figure a good 75 percent savings on your heating bills. They save a lot of tax money, so it's been an easy sell."

Dreasky said that using the panels in construction doesn't raise the overall cost of building, either. "Your material costs go up a little, about 10 percent, but labor goes way down, as much as 60 percent," he said.

Labor costs are less because the construction takes less time. "We will still work all year, we just do more projects," Dreasky explained.

Dreasky and his crew from ASIP installed a building in Roscommon earlier this month for Northern Expediting Trucking Company on Southline Road.

The building will serve as a showcase for the area, Dreasky said. "This is the first one we've done in this area."

ASIP crews are available for the construction projects, or contractors can purchase all the necessary material, including the panels, from ASIP.

"Sub-contractors absolutely love this," he said. "They don't have to worry about studs. And it's easy for electricians. It's good for a do-it-yourselfer too, say if you were putting up a new garage or something."

"It's fun to build with. It's a riot," he added.

Cutting the panels, for doors, windows, etc., can be done with a regular circular saw equipped with a special "pazi" blade. The adhesive used to help hold the panels in place is applied with a caulk gun.

Panels are available in thicknesses ranging from four inches to 12 inches.

"We sell everything needed for them to put it up," said Dreasky. "We can spend half a day with a crew to show them how everything goes, and they'll be all set."

Dreasky also noted that building with the insulated panels "far exceeds any building codes around here."

With the first piece of the corner in place, crew members apply a special adhesive to the wall's 2X6 edge before the adjoining piece is put up and attached. Large screws are then put through the second piece into the 2X6 to solidly anchor the corner panels together. Photos by Caleb Casey

Campaign management course offered at NMC

Oakland University (OU), along with Michigan Democratic and Republican Parties, announce the creation of a campaign management course designed to train individuals who will be hired to serve as campaign managers in state house races for the year 2000 campaign.

Professor Vincent Klapoja, chairman of the Political Science Department at Oakland, said, "I am pleased that we have secured the cooperation of the two major party organizations in the state in offering this campaign management course." The two major parties have agreed to help place qualified students who complete the course in a state house race during next year's campaign, and both parties have indicated that these will be paid positions.

Mark Brewer, Chair of the Michigan Democratic Party, added, "This innovative program will provide the Michigan Democratic Party and our candidates with talented and qualified people to staff our campaigns."

Betsy DeVos, Chair of the MI Republican State Committee, also is enthusiastic about this course. DeVos said, "This is a very exciting program. We are always encouraged when young people have an opportunity to become involved in the political process."

The course, titled Political Campaigns, will be offered on Monday evenings from 6:30 p.m. - 9:50 p.m. in the Winter 2000 semester, which begins January 10, 2000. Professor John S. Klemanski will serve as instructor.

The course will be offered as a distance learning course, transmitted to the Northwestern Michigan College (NMC) University Center in Traverse City, and other sites around the state are being considered.

Professor Klemanski indicated that, "Non-credit students will also be able to enroll in this course, without needing to enroll in a full degree college program. If successful, the Oakland University campus can become known as a center for state campaign management training."

An OU faculty member since 1985, Professor Klemanski has taught the course as a credit-only offering since 1996 and has served as a campaign manager in a previous state house race. A number of guests will speak to the class, including professional campaign consultants, political party leaders, public opinion pollsters, media consultants, and journalists.

KCC instructor to present at Denver Convention

Annette LaLonde, Writing Instructor at Kirtland Community College, presented her session, "The Student Journal: Integral to the Composition Classroom" at the 89th Annual Convention of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) in Denver on November 19.

Approximately 5,000 teachers and supervisors of elementary, middle and secondary English, English instructors at two-year colleges, college faculty in English and rhetoric, and teacher educators from all parts of the United States and Canada attended this year's NCTE Convention.

LaLonde's topic addressed journals as avenues for teacher-student dialogue and for moving students toward assignment objectives using Bloom's Taxonomy as a foundation.

Under the present plan, students will complete the campaign management course in late April, then be assigned to a state house campaign in time for the early May, 2000 filing deadline. In many cases, managers of winning campaigns have an option of a staff position once the elected candidate takes office.

For more information please contact Professor John S. Klemanski, Department of Political Science, Oakland University, Rochester, MI 48309-4488. ## CE customers can pay on-line

Consumers Energy's electric and natural gas customers can now review and pay their bills electronically through the utility's new Online Billing service.

Following its successful pilot program, Consumers Energy is now one of the first major Michigan corporations to offer customers the option of on-line payment.

Customers who wish to learn more about Online Billing, or enroll for the service, can find information on the utility's website, www.consumersenergy.com. To enroll, customers must provide their current customer number, located at the top of the monthly Consumers Energy bill.

Customers enrolled in Online Billing pay their bills through automatic deduction from their checking or savings accounts. In addition to current bill information, customers who choose Online Billing can review their previous 18 months' consumption of electricity and natural gas.

"We are delighted to offer our customers the Online Billing option. With personal computers in more than 50 percent of homes, we know that on-line commerce is an increasingly preferred method of bill payment," said Kenneth C. Emery, Consumers Energy's vice president, Information Technology and Operations Service.

"Enthusiastic response to our electronic billing pilot program demonstrated that customers want the option of electronic payment in a safe, secure on-line environment. We see the Internet as a primary vehicle for customer interaction in the next century," said Emery.

Davenport now covers up to 45% of Guard tuition

by Jane Byrne

Capital News Service

Lansing - In times of crisis, the 11,000 members of the Michigan Army and Air National Guard are called upon to defend state and national security. Now, with the Guard having a difficult time maintaining 100-percent strength, the state is, this year, trying to bolster the members' own security by spending $2 million toward their college education.

Sen. Phil Hoffman, R-Horton, chaired the Senate subcommittee that created the State Education Reimbursement Program (SERP) and Tuition Grant Program that took effect October 1.

Hoffman hopes the financial incentive will attract and retain recruits. "Michigan was one of the few states that didn't help pay for college for its National Guard. It's one way to get people to serve and elevate the quality of candidates."

The Michigan National Guard is comprised of air and army units. Currently, the state's Air National Guard is at 86-percent strength, while the Army National Guard is at 91-percent strength.

There are many reasons the Guard has trouble attracting new recruits, said Lt. Dawn Dancer, Guard spokesperson. "The economy's good with high employment, for one," she said. "Also, parents and grandparents don't talk about the military with their kids, like people visit us on the Internet:

www.townnews.com/avalanche/ used to. No one's mentoring children, encouraging them to join. It also doesn't help that the media portrays recent peacekeeping efforts negatively," Dancer added.

The plans share a common goal - to draw recruits - while being administered differently, said Steve Kozera, the state education officer for the Michigan National Guard.

For example, SERP, which reimburses 50 percent of tuition, up to $2,000 per year at any accredited university or college in Michigan, is state-funded. Therefore, schools aren't obligated to actively participate. Instead, students pay or defer their tuition, and are later reimbursed from the state.

Alternately, the seven colleges in the Tuition Grant Program use private funds to cover up to 45 percent of a Guard member's tuition. On November 8, Cleary College of Ann Arbor joined the program, which already included Western Michigan, Eastern Michigan, Northern Michigan, Ferris State and Lake Superior State universities. Also participating are Davenport College campuses in Grand Rapids, Gaylord and Grayling, Holland, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Lansing, Alma, Traverse City and Scottville. Cleary College, a private school, offers a 30-percent tuition grant.

"A lot of private schools wouldn't sign on for the tuition-grant program," said Kozera. "The incentive, though, is that offering it helps increase the school's enrollment."

For example, private Hillsdale College has a policy against participating in any programs that are commingled with federal funds, while Michigan State University and the University of Michigan don't participate because they already turn away thousands of applicants each year.

John Czarnecki, Davenport's director of Northern Michigan regional operations, explained why his private school finds the partnership to be a good fit, despite not receiving the tax dollars participating in public schools do. "We are a private, nonprofit business school," he said. "We see the National Guard as a market interested in business and leadership education, which we provide. It fits our mission of providing practical education to a specific audience."

Unlike SERP, the grant program asks institutions to be active partners with the National Guard. A school president and the Guard sign a memorandum of agreement, a formal statement expressing commitment to the program.

"It's like a handshake," Kozera said. "It's not actually a contract. Either side can break the agreement."

Generating station has new plant manager

CMS Energy Corporation's independent power production unit, CMS Generation Company, announced Philip E. Lewis has been appointed plant manager of its Grayling Generating Station.

Lewis succeeds Daniel E. Nally, plant manager since the facility's commissioning in 1992, who was transferred to CMS Generation's headquarters in Dearborn.

Thirty-nine year old Lewis is responsible for managing all business functions related to the 36-megawatt, waste wood-fueled plant.

This includes operations, maintenance and fuel supply. He was previously operations and maintenance superintendent at the Grayling plant since 1995.

Lewis joined CMS Generation as a control room operator at its Filer City Station, located near Manistee, in 1990.

In 1991, he became an operations analyst at the company's Dearborn office, before being transferred to the Grayling plant as operations supervisor in 1992.

The new plant manager earned a bachelor of science degree in business management from Columbia State University and serves as a Lieutenant for the South Branch Township Fire Department.

GHS students named to honors bands

► 15 Grayling band members earn District honors, 5 named to CMU honors band

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

Fifteen members of the Grayling High School Band were selected for the District 2 Honors Band, after auditioning in Charlevoix earlier this month.

"I think this is the most we've ever had in the group," said Band Director Dennis Ormsbee.

District 2 includes schools of all classes from Rogers City to Frankfurt. Students from 34 high schools were chosen to participate in the District Honors Band this year. Of the 120 students that auditioned, 100 made the cut.

Grayling will be represented by: Krys Rugenstein, Gwen Seifert, Erin Scott, Gina Rosi, Tiffany Ruark, Todd Gaffke, Ken Heinlein, Coleman Payne, Jessie Strait, Matt Thomas, Ann Hughes, Tim Ormsbee, Ryan Mirate, Jason Henning, and Bridget Reed.

Rugenstein and Seifert are both "first chairs" in the honors band.

Under the direction of Grand Valley State University Band Director Barry Martin, the District Honors Band will perform at Petoskey Middle School on Sunday, December 5, at 3 p.m. Band members will rehearse on Saturday afternoon, stay the night in Petoskey, and rehearse again on Sunday morning before the performance.

Performance selections may include "Flourish for Wind Band," "On a Hymnson of Philip Bliss," Honors Band were also recently named to the Central Michigan University Honors Band.

Rugenstein, Seifert, Scott, Ormsbee and Heinlein were all selected to participate in the CMU honors group, which contains about 90 members in all. Ormsbee and Scott both made first chair.

"They are really selective at CMU," said GHS band director Ormsbee. "Anybody in the state that is in high school band is eligible to audition for the CMU group. They have representatives from all over."

The students auditioned at CMU a few weeks ago, and performed there this past weekend.

Winter Walking

Question: I've been walking and jogging all summer and fall. Now that winter is approaching, I would like to keep on being active. Are there any special concerns for exercising outdoors in the winter?

Signed: Winter wonderland exercise.

Answer: First, dress appropriately. Winter exercise apparel should include several layers of loose fitting clothes that can be easily removed as you start to sweat. Don't forget to include mittens, headwear and shoes with good traction.

Warm up and cool down by stretching indoors. Drink a lot of water. It is easy to become dehydrated in cold weather. Avoid alcohol and caffeine which dehydrate. Dehydration hinders your body's ability to regulate its temperature. Don't forget about wind. Compensate for a strong wind by running or riding against it on your way out, not your way back. You will work hardest before you're tired and sweaty.

Be extra careful and alert. Watch for skidding cars. Shorter days mean less visibility. Keep moving. If you stop, put on extra clothes. Avoid snow and ice - it's not worth the risk of injury. Some joggers are able to run on hard packed snow but the pace needs to be slowed and steps shortened. Wear your sun glasses and sunscreen. Winter means snow covered ground which can reflect the sun and cause burns or obscure your vision.

Ask your doctor if it is safe to breathe cold air. This is not harmful for healthy people but those who suffer from asthma, angina or high blood pressure should check with a doctor before exercising in the cold. They may need to wear a scarf in front of the face or a special mask.

Know symptoms of frostbite and hypothermia. These are the two main dangers of exercising in the cold. Watch for any numbness or white discoloration of frostbite particularly on hands, feet, ears and face. Hypothermia is a dangerous drop in body temperature that could occur if you were outside for many hours, cold, wet, and not moving around.

Take special precautions if exercising at night - wear fluorescent or reflective materials, run or walk against traffic and either wear or carry a light. Stay off high traffic roads, avoid looking at headlights and don't wear headphones. When choosing shoes, pick ones that offer good traction and shock absorption, especially when running on hard frozen ground. If shoes have extra space inside, they will trap warm air. Also, when it is cold you can wear an extra pair of socks.

It is important to drink just as much water in the cold weather as in the hot weather. It is easy to become dehydrated in cold weather because of sweating, breathing and stepped up urine production.

A total of 69 complaints were handled by the Grayling City Police Department during the one-week period.

Thanksgiving fact:
Drowsy after dinner?
Blame it on the tryptophan

The Thanksgiving post-dinner nap is almost as much a tradition as the feast itself. But is it being stuffed that makes us drowsy, or is it something in the stuffing - or in the turkey?

Mimi Lou, interim nutrition specialist for the U-M Housing Division, says that the amino acid tryptophan, which is found in many of the foods we eat at Thanksgiving, can make you sleepy. "Tryptophan stimulates the production of the neurotransmitter serotonin, and that's what causes part of the drowsiness you feel after Thanksgiving dinner," said Lou.

She says that tryptophan is present in turkey, potatoes, yams and rolls, all of which grace the typical Thanksgiving table.

So, the next time you're caught napping during cleanup time, blame it on the tryptophan. E-mail Lou at mimilou@umich.edu.

Bill could help use of DNA in criminal investigations

A bill introduced in the U.S. House today with bipartisan support would provide major assistance to local, state and federal law enforcement agencies in utilizing DNA to identify sex offenders, violent offenders and missing persons.

Rep. Bart Stupak (D-Minnesota), joined Rep. Jim Ramstad (R-Minnesota) and Rep. Benjamin Gilman (R-New York), in unveiling legislation that would fund analyzing and recording a nationwide backlog of DNA samples collected from convicted offenders and unsolved cases.

High schoolers with disabilities invited to four-day career forum

Application packets for the Michigan Youth Leadership Forum for high school students with disabilities have been mailed to Intermediate School Districts in Michigan, as well as to a number of disability-related agencies.

"This excellent program will bring together young people who have already begun to demonstrate community and school leadership and have made these achievements despite a variety of disabilities," said Lydia Gruber, Chair of the Michigan Commission on Disability Concerns.

The Forum is a four-day career and future planning awareness program that will take place July 17 - 20, 2000 on the campus of Michigan State University. Approximately 30 high school juniors and seniors (in the 2000-2001 school year) with disabilities will be selected, through a competitive process, to attend the Forum. There is no charge for students to attend.

"Young people with disabilities have more opportunities and more challenges than at any other time in our nation's history," said Douglas Howard, Director of Michigan's Family Independence Agency. "However, many young people need encouragement and Stupak, who serves as co-chairman of the House Law Enforcement Caucus with Ramstad, said there may be a serious misunderstanding in the general public about the availability of DNA as a basic tool in every important investigation.

"The sad reality is that state and local police departments do not have the resources to deal with the number of DNA samples they collect," Stupak said.

"This DNA may be sitting on a shelf, waiting to be tested, cataloged, and made available - not only to that law enforcement agency but to other local, state and national law enforcement agencies. Unanalyzed and unrecorded DNA samples are useless for criminal investigations."

Stupak said this situation could clearly lead to a scenario in which a convicted sex offender, whose DNA has been collected but not tested or entered into the law enforcement database, gets out of jail and commits another assault.

"Even if his DNA is collected from the new crime scene, he will not be identified by this means, because his previous sample is still sitting on the shelf," Stupak said.

The proposed legislation, called the Convicted Offender DNA Index System Support Act, would permit the FBI to contract with private labs to test the samples of convicted offenders. In addition, states could receive funding to analyze their backlog of DNA samples from unsolved cases.

Michigan currently has around 5,000 samples that have not been analyzed, Stupak said.

"Discovery of the unique genetic markers of DNA was a scientific breakthrough that can be invaluable in criminal investigations," Stupak said. "With DNA we can tie criminals to other crimes, help innocent people go free, and provide answers in the case of missing persons that might forever have gone unsolved."

"This bill will bring us closer to that unrealized goal," Rep. Stupak said.

The #1 Cause of Disability: Low Back Pain

Eight out of ten adults will experience a low back problem at some time in their lives. With back problems so widespread, chances are, you too will experience back problems at some time.

While some patients seek chiropractic care only when pain is unbearable, this "crisis" approach often costs more in the long run—in time, stress, and dollars. Evidence, and the experiences of millions of chiropractic patients, suggests that spinal manipulation is, in many cases, the most effective approach to reducing low back pain and helping recovery.

Kirtland to display works of artist/photographer

The work of wildlife artist/photographer Kim Diment will be exhibited at the Kirtland Community College Art Gallery through December 11.

A native of northeastern Michigan, Diment started drawing and painting at an early age. She often found herself wandering about the forests of the AuSable River near her hometown of Oscoda where she could watch and sketch birds and animals.

She graduated from Oscoda High School and continued her studies at Michigan State University (MSU) graduating with majors in fine arts and zoology in 1985. She later returned to MSU to earn her teaching certificate.

While still in college, Diment found time to enter the Michigan State Duck Stamp and Michigan United Conservation Clubs' (MUCC) Wildlife Artist of the Year competitions. Only after she started to teach art in Standish did she begin placing in these annual events.

In the Michigan Duck Stamp competition, she placed in the top 10 three times and received a second place finish in 1994, third place in 1995, and another second place in 1999. In the MUCC competition, she placed third and fifth with three top ten placings as well.

This gave her the opportunity to have artwork in three different MUCC calendars.

Diment became an avid traveler and photographer in her college years after a trip to Europe. She returned to England to do her student teaching and continue her travels.

She has spent several summers traveling and photographing in Kenya, Tanzania, Zimbabwe, Zambia, Botswana, Malawi, and South Africa.

She has also photographed in the Amazon Basin, the Galapagos, Canada, and various areas of the United States. Currently, Diment is working on her series of African "Big Cat" paintings on large canvas in acrylic.

The Art Gallery is on College Drive on the Kirtland campus at 10775 North St. Helen Road. The Gallery hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. A special reception was held for the artist on November 10 to open the exhibit.

Salad Bar Do's and Don'ts

Question: My friend and I are both on diets. When we go out for lunch I choose salad bar because I think it is the least fattening. She has a hot meal. My friend keeps trying to tell me I'm eating more fat and calories than she is. Is this possible?

Signed: Salad bar Sally.

Answer: Yes, this is not only possible but probable. A study done at Mississippi State University found that students who ate the salad bar for lunch usually consumed more calories than those who ate a hot meal.

Still, a salad bar can fit into a healthy meal plan if the consumer follows a few suggestions:

- Choose mainly fresh vegetables, fruits, and legumes as the main items.
- 1 cup of lettuce
- 1/2 tomato sliced
- 1/2 cup of cottage cheese
- 4 slices of cucumber
- 1/2 cup of marinated bean salad
- 1/4 cup macaroni salad
- 1 1/2 small ladles of salad dressing
- 1/4 cup grated cheese
- 3 ripe olives
- 1/8 cup of sunflower seeds
- 1 hard boiled egg, chopped or sliced
- 1/4 cup diced ham

This is a typical plateful from a salad bar. Just this amount provides about 1,000 calories and to make matters worse, some items have an extremely high fat content. If the salad bar includes rolls and muffins, soup and dessert, which many do, it is highly possible your "diet" lunch is close to 2,000 calories.

Still, a salad bar can fit into a healthy meal plan if the consumer follows a few suggestions:

- Choose mainly fresh vegetables, fruits, and legumes as the main items on your plate.

- Cottage cheese is a good choice as well if it is a low fat variety, but on a salad bar it is hard to determine if it is.

- Use sparingly the fat laden items such as avocados, olives, sunflower seeds, bacon bits, oriental noodles, croutons, grated cheese and chopped eggs - or avoid them altogether.

- Try not to enthusiastically ladle on salad dressings. Most ladies hold 2 tablespoonsful of dressing (at least). You shouldn't use several ladles full on a salad. Choose a low fat dressing if it is available or vinegar with only a little oil. Better still, put dressing on the side for dipping. You will use much less.

- Pasta or vegetable salads that are marinated often contain lots of oil or mayonnaise. Eat these sparingly.

- If soup is offered on a salad bar, remember that vegetable based soups are low in fat while beef base or creamy soups are not.

Salad bars can offer healthy low calorie meals with the careful selec-

About Thanksgiving: Did the Pilgrims have our Thanksgiving dinner?

Every child knows the story of the first Thanksgiving. But did the Pilgrims actually sit down to stuffed turkey and cranberry sauce? Not according to Richard Ford, professor of anthropology at the U-M.

"The Pilgrims had few resources to draw from, and a limited number of foods," said Ford. "At that time, the domesticated plants known to the Native Americans were corn, beans and squash, while the Europeans brought over wheat, barley for beer, and peas, although they may not have produced much of a crop that year."

The meat at the feast was wild, and included deer, turkey and other fowl, and fish.

The dinner probably also included berries, but not cranberries, since there was no sugar to sweeten them.

So where did the turkey dinner with all the trimmings come from? "The First Thanksgiving was not repeated annually and actually did not become an official holiday until President Lincoln declared it," said Ford. "By then there were many different foods that could be served and it is from this time period that our typical dinner foods derive."

Nominees for Athena, Citizen of the Year needed Chamber raffle tickets now on sale

Nominations for Citizen of the Year and Athena Awards are being accepted until December 15, 1999 at the Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce office.

The Chamber is asking for the public's help in recognizing outstanding people in our community by submitting nominations for their consideration.

Nomination forms are available at the Chamber office on James Street near the City Park, however, letters of nomination will also be considered.

Nominations for Citizen of the year need to include reason for the nomination, accomplishments, community service, and other factors important for consideration.

Nominations for the Athena Award should include how the nominee assists women in reaching their full leadership potential, business accomplishments, community service, other memberships, achievements, awards, publications and any additional information pertaining to award criteria.

Martha Maywood Mertz, a Lansing realtor, created the Athena Foundation. Her goal was to focus on outstanding professional and businesswomen in the community and to encourage the opening of leadership opportunities for women within the chamber of commerce and the community's workplace. The program includes over 375 U.S. cities, as well as Canada and Russia.

The Athena Award is no longer limited to recognizing women -- men have also received the award. More than 2,600 women and men throughout the United States have been recognized for their accomplishments with the Athena Award.

The Chamber also announced the Annual $10,000 Chamber Challenge Raffle, sponsored by the Grayling Chamber, will be held January 22, 2000.

Tickets are available from Chamber Board members or at the Chamber office. For more information, call 348-2921.

Plutonium shipment to be a 'one-time thing'

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Michigan will not become the nuclear corridor route for shipping plutonium to Canada, Secretary of Energy Bill Richardson promised Reps. Dave Camp (R-Michigan) and Jim Barcia (D-Bay City), and six other members of the Michigan delegation when he met privately with them last week.

"The Secretary gave us his word, face-to-face, that this is a one-time shipment," Camp said. "Officials from his department also spoke at a public meeting in Saginaw two weeks ago."

"One of my main concerns about this shipment all along is that I-75 not become a nuclear corridor," Barcia said. "We are satisfied with the Secretary's assurance, in response to our meeting and a letter we wrote to him on November 4th, that there will be no additional shipments of plutonium from New Mexico to Canada through Michigan."

The federal government is supporting a test of methods for disposing of weapons-grade plutonium by testing mixed oxide (MOX) fuel, which contains some weapons-grade plutonium, by shipping it to Canada as part of "Project Parallax."

Project Parallax is an agreement between the United States and Russia whereby both countries would provide test material to dispose of their surplus weapons-grade plutonium and enriched uranium by using it as a fuel to produce power.

"Secretary Richardson also gave us his assurance that the federal government will assume all responsibility for the safety of the shipment, thus relieving local officials' expected 'first responder' responsibility," Barcia said.

The criteria used to choose the route were also discussed during the meeting with Richardson, Camp and Barcia said.

"Secretary Richardson made no commitments on changing the crossing point, but said if the two countries agree to change the crossing point, mechanisms exist to do so," Camp said.

After protests from Camp and Barcia that local officials and residents living along the proposed route were not adequately notified about the shipment, Energy officials also agreed to a public meeting in Saginaw on November 1, where they explained the safety of the shipment and answered questions from the public.

Additional public meetings were hosted by Rep. Bart Stupak (D-Menominee) and Rep. Debbie Stabenow (D-Lansing).

Present at the meeting with Richardson were Reps. Barcia, Camp, Stupak, Stabenow, David Bonior (D-Mount Clemens), Joe Knollenberg (R-Bloomfield Twp.), Vern Ehlers (R-Grand Rapids) and Fred Upton (R-St. Joseph).

Land, fishery and forest groups partner to protect 6,000 acres

The Trust for Public Land joins the U.S. Forest Service in announcing the protection of nearly 6,000 acres of river frontage and upland forest land across seven lower Michigan counties.

Located within the Huron-Manistee National Forest, the lands are a mixture of wetlands and old growth forest, including almost six miles of river frontage on the AuSable and Manistee Rivers. With its variety of rivers, streams, and forests, the properties will provide numerous recreational opportunities along the North Country National Scenic Trail and protect critical habitat for threatened and endangered species.

Once owned by the Consumers Power Company, the lands total 5,973 acres throughout Alcona, Crawford, Manistee, Mecosta, Newaygo, Oscoda, and Wexford Counties. In a 1996 settlement, 11,000 acres of land were transferred from the company to the Great Lakes Fishery Trust (GLFT), which was authorized to sell the lands to generate funds to support Great Lakes fishery restoration projects.

Because of the property's ecological and recreational value, the Forest Service approached the Trust for Public Land (TPL) to help protect GLFT lands within the boundaries of the Huron-Manistee National Forest from development. TPL purchased the lands from GLFT and conveyed them to the Forest.

The acquisition's funding was approved by the U.S. Congress through the Land and Water Conservation Fund, with critical support coming from members of the Michigan Congressional delegation, especially Senators Carl Levin and Spencer Abraham, and Congressman Dave Camp.

"In many years of working on behalf of Michigan's natural resources, this project stands out as a unique and ingenious effort to ensure the health and vitality of our state's rivers, streams and fisheries," state Senator Carl Levin. "I was pleased to be a strong supporter of this special project, which will benefit Michigan's residents and visitors for years to come."

Senator Spencer Abraham said: "I am pleased to have worked successfully on behalf of this unique land conservation project. Setting aside such sensitive land brings multiple benefits to Michigan's natural resources and ensures protection of our forests and fisheries for future generations."

"Our work to acquire this land is a unique opportunity to protect the habitat of one of mid-Michigan's most famous birds, the Kirtland's warbler, and other animals, as well as to preserve a wide variety of wetland habitats," Congressman Dave Camp said. "It is a great example of teamwork between the federal government and conservation groups."

These lands include some of the most critical wildlife habitat in the state of Michigan, sheltering threatened and endangered species such as the Kirtland's warbler (the most rare migratory songbird), Karner blue butterfly, and bald eagle. This remote mixture of river frontage, forest lands, and wetlands also supports a range of other wildlife, including wild orchids, sandhill cranes, and black bears.

Support from the Michigan United Conservation Club was instrumental in obtaining the necessary funding. James Goodheart, Executive Director of MUCC and a trustee of the Great Lakes Fisheries Trust, said: "The transfer of this property to the United States Forest Service will accomplish two major public purposes.

"By placing these lands in public ownership the natural resource values can be protected while providing excellent opportunities for hunter, anglers and others who can now use them for a wide variety of recreational purposes.

"In addition, the funds generated from this sale will be used by the trust to enhance the Great Lakes fishery resources through grants to government agencies, non-profit conservation organizations and universities for fisheries research, habitat protection, education, and fishing access."

By securing this property, the Trust for Public Land and the Huron-Manistee National Forest are helping to prevent development on these critical lands and to aid in the protection of wildlife and fishery resources that contribute to the high quality of recreational opportunities in Michigan.

"This purchase includes many tracts that fit into our current National Forest ownership like missing pieces of a puzzle," said Acting Forest Supervisor John Serfass. "With the decreasing amount of undeveloped land remaining in this part of Michigan, these new public lands will become increasingly important as havens for wildlife and fish, as well as for people who enjoy our natural environment."

Through these ongoing cooperative efforts the Trust for Public Land (TPL) has protected more than one million acres of land nationwide, including over 52,000 acres in Michigan. The Trust for Public Land is a national nonprofit land conservation organization dedicated to preserving land of recreational, ecological, and historical value for the public. ## Land, fishery and forest groups partner to protect 6,000 acres chased the lands from GLFT and conveyed them to the Forest.

The acquisition's funding was approved by the U.S. Congress through the Land and Water Conservation Fund, with critical support coming from members of the Michigan Congressional delegation, especially Senators Carl Levin and Spencer Abraham, and Congressman Dave Camp.

"In many years of working on behalf of Michigan's natural resources, this project stands out as a unique and ingenious effort to ensure the health and vitality of our state's rivers, streams and fisheries," state Senator Carl Levin. "I was pleased to be a strong supporter of this special project, which will benefit Michigan's residents and visitors for years to come."

Senator Spencer Abraham said: "I am pleased to have worked successfully on behalf of this unique land conservation project. Setting aside such sensitive land brings multiple benefits to Michigan's natural resources and ensures protection of our forests and fisheries for future generations."

"Our work to acquire this land is a unique opportunity to protect the habitat of one of mid-Michigan's most famous birds, the Kirtland's warbler, and other animals, as well as to preserve a wide variety of wetland habitats," Congressman Dave Camp said. "It is a great example

These lands include some of the most critical wildlife habitat in the state of Michigan, sheltering threatened and endangered species such as the Kirtland's warbler (the most rare migratory songbird), Karner blue butterfly, and bald eagle. This remote mixture of river frontage, forest lands, and wetlands also supports a range of other wildlife, including wild orchids, sandhill cranes, and black bears.

Support from the Michigan United Conservation Club was instrumental in obtaining the necessary funding. James Goodheart, Executive Director of MUCC and a trustee of the Great Lakes Fisheries Trust, said: "The transfer of this property to the United States Forest Service will accomplish two major public purposes.

"By placing these lands in public ownership the natural resource values can be protected while providing excellent opportunities for hunter, anglers and others who can now use them for a wide variety of recreational purposes.

"In addition, the funds generated from this sale will be used by the trust to enhance the Great Lakes fishery resources through grants to government agencies, non-profit conservation organizations and universities for fisheries research, habitat protection, education, and fishing access."

By securing this property, the Trust for Public Land and the Huron-Manistee National Forest are helping to prevent development on these critical lands and to aid in the protection of wildlife and fishery resources that contribute to the high quality of recreational opportunities in Michigan.

"This purchase includes many tracts that fit into our current National Forest ownership like missing pieces of a puzzle," said Acting Forest Supervisor John Serfass. "With the decreasing amount of undeveloped land remaining in this part of Michigan, these new public lands will become increasingly important as havens for wildlife and fish, as well as for people who enjoy our natural environment."

Through these ongoing cooperative efforts the Trust for Public Land (TPL) has protected more than one million acres of land nationwide, including over 52,000 acres in Michigan. The Trust for Public Land is a national nonprofit land conservation organization dedicated to preserving land of recreational, ecological, and historical value for the public. Working with communities, landowners, and government agencies, TPL protects land as parks, trails, greenways, wilderness and historic landmarks.

Meet Me in St. Louis – A photo album

The Grayling High School Players presented three evening performances of the romantic musical comedy, Meet Me in St. Louis, November 18-20, 1999 in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium. The GHS Players, including their pit orchestra and technical crew, spent more than 300 hours over the course of three months preparing for the production. Hundreds of people came to enjoy our community's young and talented folks.

Vikings lose to Sault Blue Devils

► Strong 2nd half comeback falls short,
Sault's inside game
too much for GHS

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

The Sault Ste. Marie Blue Devils ended Grayling's season and the Vikings' run at the District title on Wednesday, November 17, as the Blue Devils beat the Vikings 68-57 in a District Semi-Final match.

Sault Ste. Marie took a big early lead, but the Vikings put together a valiant comeback effort in the second half to make the game close.

The Blue Devils had a significant size advantage in the paint, and physically overpowered Grayling inside for most of the game. The majority of Sault Ste. Marie's points were scored near and under the basket.

The Sault Ste. Marie team opened the game with a 15-0 run, scoring six of its buckets inside. Grayling stopped the Blue Devils from scoring in the last three minutes of the first quarter, but the Vikes were unable to score until one minute left.

At the 1:01 mark Mika Sumner took a rebound back up for a score. With 16 seconds left, Emily Henion made a nice move to the basket after a steal, and Brandy Ritter finished the period scoring with a three pointer with three seconds left.

With the 7-0 run, Grayling was within eight after one quarter, 15-7.

Carrie Cadeau opened the second period with a put-back under the basket, but SSM scored three straight baskets inside to take a 21-9 lead.

Grayling kept up with the Devils for the remainder of the half, scoring points mainly on jump shots.

Andrea Elmy hit three jumpers and two free throws for eight GHS points in the second quarter. Emily Fox and Sumner also scored for Grayling in the period.

Sault led 32-23 at halftime.

Grayling came out in the second half with more intensity on both ends of the court. GHS played a more physical game, and was able to disrupt Sault's strong inside game.

The Vikings mounted a big third quarter comeback.

With 5:34 left in the third period, Elmy hit a short jumper, followed by triples by Kristy Hulbert and Fox, which cut the Sault lead to three.

As the Devils fought back, a shot inside by Henion and a three-pointer by Ritter helped keep the SSM lead at three.

After a late inside bucket by the Devils, Jayme Potter hit a short basket off the glass at the buzzer to put the score at Grayling 42, Sault 45, going into the fourth quarter.

Grayling continued to battle well down low, especially on the defensive end, forcing SSM to take more jumpers and three-pointers, which were not nearly as effective as the team's inside game.

The physical battle down low resulted in several Grayling fouls, which started to take its toll toward the end of the game as SSM scored points at the line.

With under two minutes left in the game, SSM hit a shot in the paint to go up seven, 56-49.

Henion answered with a driving jump shot. Henion grabbed a steal on the next Sault possession and scored the jumper to pull GHS back within three, 56-53, with 1:35 left in the game.

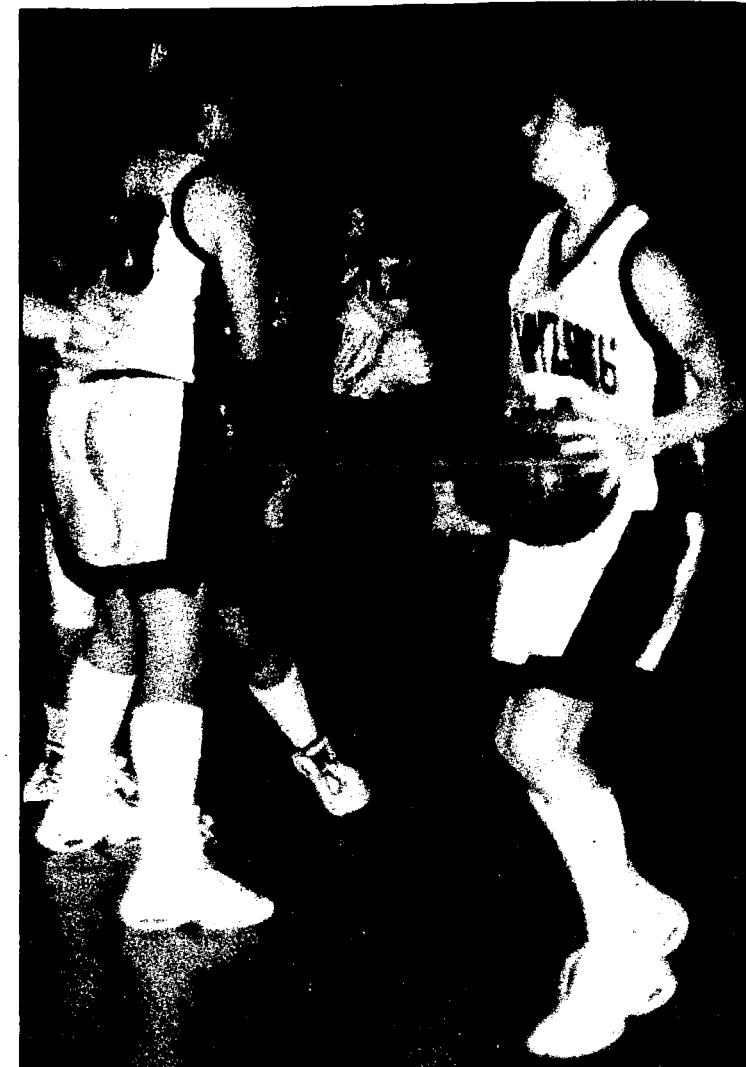

Grayling didn't have enough left to pull any closer, however, and SSM started to pull away.

A three-point play brought the momentum back to the Blue Devils, and extended their lead to six. Sault scored four more points on three trips to the free throw line.

With 35 seconds left, Paxton was fouled on a three-point shot, and converted two of three from the stripe. A Sault three-point play and two more free throws by SSM put the game out of reach.

A shot inside by Paxton in the final seconds finished the scoring, leaving the final game tally at 68-57.

Five GHS football players named All-Conference

► Vikings take one spot on 1st team, 5 honorable mentions

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

Five Viking football players recently received All-Conference honors.

Ray Trudgeon was named to the North East Michigan Conference first team for his work on the defensive line this season.

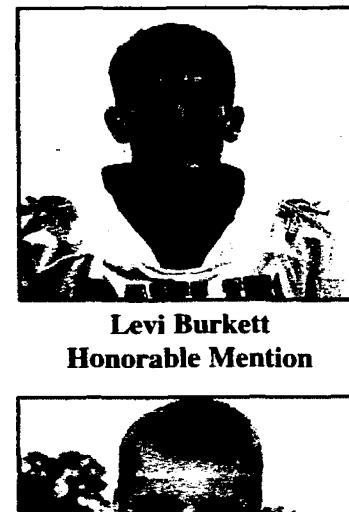

Honorable mentions went to: quarterback Levi Burkett, running back Eli Tobin, tight end Jeremy Latusek, offensive lineman Ray Trudgeon, and defensive player Marc Weaver.

"The way this league is, if you at least get an honorable mention, it's a privilege," said GHS Football Coach Rodney Patterson.

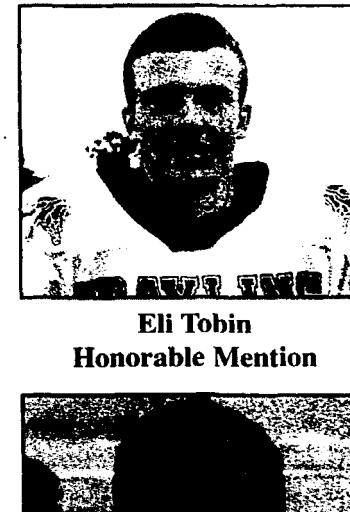

All-Conference honors are voted on by the NEMC coaches, but a

Two Viking runners compete at State

► Wymans finish 129th and 156th out of 279 runners

After qualifying for the State Across Country meet on Saturday, October 30, Kathy and Karen Wyman traveled to Brooklyn (MI) to test their skills against the other top female Class B state qualifiers. The race was held at Michigan International Speedway.

Out of a field of 279 runners, Kathy placed 129th with a time of 20:38. Karen placed 156th with a time of 20:49.

"Although there were 27 runners between them, there was only an 11 second spread, that gives a pretty clear indication of the level of the competition," said Coach Ron Rakoczy.

"Kathy was not a newcomer to the state final meet, as she also ran in it last year. I was pleased with their performance. Kathy bested her time

Varsity basketball team prepares for '99/00 season

► Vikes open with Bucks on Tuesday, December 7, at Roscommon HS

The GHS varsity boys basketball team, hoping to compete for the top spot in the always tough North East Michigan Conference, continues to prepare for the upcoming season.

Grayling's first game will be at Roscommon on Tuesday, December 7.

Coach Rich Moffit says team members have been working hard in preparation for the upcoming basketball season.

"Our league should be very balanced and pretty good," said Coach Moffit. "There are a number of teams that could challenge for the league championship. One thing is for certain in the NEMC, you must bring your 'A' game to the court if you are going to be successful."

"We have the potential to be a good team," said Coach Moffit. "Our kids have worked very hard during the off-season to improve their strength and skills. Our team chemistry is very good. There is a love for each other and all of our players are striving to make this year successful."

Grayling has five seniors returning to this year's squad: Eli Tobin, Nate Hinkle, Dave Hawkins, Brad Wilson, and Adam Knapp. Joe Fritz, Per Lampinen, and Jeremy Latusek are the other three seniors playing for varsity this year.

The eight 12th graders are joined by last year's JV standouts Brad Gorski, Levi Burkett and Marcus Bobenmoyer, and junior Marcus Marelich.

The following is a complete run down of this year's team with scouting reports by Coach Moffit:

ELI TOBIN -- 5'8" senior guard; explosive point guard who possesses the ability to penetrate and finish at the offensive end of the court; All-League for two years; averaged 11 points and five assists per game

NATE HINKLE -- 6'3" senior guard; signed letter of intent to play at Grand Valley State University; increased his strength during the off-season; All-State and All-League for two years; averaged 22 points; excellent outside shooter who can play all five positions on the floor

DAVE HAWKINS -- 6'2" senior forward; All-League Honorable Mention; good outside shooter who can play all five positions on the floor

ADAM KNAPP -- 6'3" senior center; regained the speed and quickness that he possessed during his sophomore season; physical defender who has improved his scoring ability in the paint

BRAD WILSON -- 5'11" senior guard; tough defender who has improved his game immensely; provides intensity on the court

JOE FRITZ -- 6'8" senior center; provides the size that GHS has lacked for the past few years; good rebounder who can change a player's shot in the paint

BRAD GORSKI -- 6'0" junior point guard; excellent passer who can hit the "three" or take it to the hole; led last year's JV team to a 16-4 record

LEVI BURKETT -- 6'0" junior guard; excellent outside shooter who is a great offensive rebounder

JEREMY LATUSEK -- 6'1" senior forward; first year of playing organized basketball; excellent rebounder and defender who brings toughness to the game

MARCUS BOBENMOYER -- 6'3" junior forward; excellent range on his outside jump shot; plays well in transition

junior forward; possesses a strong work ethic and is a good rebounder; one of the hardest working players on the team

PER LAMPINEN -- 6'2" senior center; foreign exchange student who is playing his first year of basketball; good worker

"This group of kids is fun to

watch," said Coach Moffit. "We will pressure every inch of the court and run in transition whenever the opportunity exists."

"We have a number of concerns going into the season," said Moffit. "The number one priority to improve is rebounding. We have to do a better job on the boards this year if we are going to be successful."

Grayling's first home match will be against West Branch Ogemaw Heights on Friday, December 10.

Local bowhunter bags two deer

Local bowhunter Vivan Campbell, 85, (right) shot a doe and a three-point buck hunting with his son Leroy (left) in Alpena during this year's bow season. Campbell, who retired from Bear Archery, has been hunting with a bow for over 40 years. Campbell shot the two deer with a 40-pound Jennings bow, which is equipped with a holographic sight, using gold tip arrows.

Skip's hosts annual Buck Pole

► Area hunters, several local, win prizes at annual buck pole event

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

The opening day of firearm deer season (November 15) went well for quite a few hunters this year, based on the results of the annual Buck Pole competition, which was held at Skip's Sport Shop last week.

"We had a little heavier deer, a little bigger antlers. Overall, it was a pretty good opener," said Skip's Sport Shop owner Jack Millikin. "Most people said they saw deer."

Millikin said the buck kill was roughly the same as in years past, but on average the deer brought in to this season's buck pole were heavier and had bigger racks.

Also, most hunters that brought in deer reported light hunting pressure in the woods, Millikin said.

Forty-two deer were entered in the buck pole this year: 27 on Monday, November 15, and 15 on Tuesday.

The buck pole's grand prize, a scoped rifle, was awarded to Matt Harwood of Grayling, whose 180-pound buck had a rack of 139.5 total inches. Harwood's deer had the largest rack out of the 42 entered in the two-day competition, earning him the top prize.

Several prizes of $50 U.S. savings bonds were awarded both days in the following buck pole competition categories:

November 15 -- First buck: Herm Koning, Holland; first woman hunter: Deborah Robinson, Grayling; oldest hunter: Don Kuk, Roscommon; youngest hunter: Danny Mahaney, Grayling; heaviest buck: Kary Gabriel, Frederic

November 16 -- First buck: Joe Accettola, Warren; first woman hunter: Sasha Latuszek, Grayling; oldest hunter: Pat Sheridan, Lexington; youngest hunter: Brandon Jacobs, Grayling; heaviest buck: Kary Gabriel, Frederic

Savings bonds ($50) were also awarded to the first 10 hunters to bring in bucks on both days:

November 16 -- Joe Accettola, Warren; Dustin Ellis, Grayling; Pat Sheridan, Lexington; Brandon Jacobs, Grayling; Ronnie Lech, Birmingham; Ted Williams, Kalkaska; Tera Dixon, Grayling; Sasha Latuszek, Grayling; Dave Eastman, Grayling; Jayson Welser, Grayling

Finally, on both days, a prize of $10 cash was awarded to each of the next 15 hunters (after the first 10) to bring in bucks:

November 15 -- Danny Mahaney, Grayling; Owen Grotts, Clio; Deborah Robinson, Grayling; Ron Rakoczy Sr., Grayling; Jim Hilbrecht, Grayling; Terry Osmom, Walled Lake; Rick Buckingham, Howell; Richard Mlyncek, Brighton; Randy Tiederman, Waterford; Jim McMillan, Grayling; Kary Gabriel, Frederic; James Watts, Waterford; Dan Bonamie, Grayling; Ron Swiss, Saginaw; Ted Bayham, Frederic

November 16 -- Raymond Nichols, Claredon (VT); Chris Thayer, Birch Run; Steve Godsy, Garden City; Matt Harwood, Grayling; Kurt Kitchen, Grayling

Hunter has successful opening day

by Caleb Casey
Staff Writer

Local sportsman Bud Hunter, 85, got his deer on opening day.

Hunter, who was featured in an Avalanche article two weeks ago, said he almost decided not to head out, but did, and shot a deer on November 15, opening day of firearm deer season.

"Now I can go get another one," he said with enthusiasm.

HOROSCOPES

For The Week Of November 28-December 4

Aries
March 21-April 20

You can find an escape route if you really want out. Be patient, do some planning, and doors will open to you. You may be facing financial difficulties in the not-too-distant future. You can overcome these problems.

Taurus
April 21-May 21

Don't settle for second best—it will only cause you problems in the future. A few more dollars now will be well worth your time and effort later. You may find a distant relative needs your support and understanding.

Gemini
May 22-June 21

You'll have a deeper understanding and heightened awareness of everything around you this week; this may not be the greatest time to get involved in emotional projects. Hold off on those until you have your emotions under control.

Cancer
June 22-July 22

Your motto this week is "The only thing worse than a bad decision is indecision." Remember it throughout the week at home and at work. Make up your mind, then stick to it. Even if you're wrong, don't apologize—go on.

Leo
July 23-August 23

Be patient. The answer may come from a very unlikely source, such as a competitor. Once you figure things out, you'll be glad you were patient. Maybe you should try being patient with other events and people, too.

Virgo
August 24-September 22

Serious problems are hounding a close personal friend. As a result, he/she is behaving very out of character. It's best if you don't make decisions this week concerning him/her. You should stay open-minded about the personality change.

A LOOK AT OUR PAST FROM THE PAGES OF THE AVALANCHE

23 Years Ago

November 25, 1976

At a meeting of the AuSable River Watershed Study Council the results of a study made on the South Branch were reviewed. The study showed that the installation of a spray irrigation system at Roscommon has resulted in improved conditions in the South Branch. The data indicate that current water quality conditions may warrant further investigations into the cause of elevated fecal coliform levels. The council also reviewed a summary of a survey regarding designating the AuSable as a national wild and scenic river. This designation is viewed by some as a means of preserving river aesthetics and providing recreation opportunities for the public. Others feel it is not necessary and the same result can be obtained through local zoning. Other concerns expressed in the survey were law enforcement, lack of use facilities, environmental impacts of the river use, user conflicts, development of the river by residential interests, extension of governmental control and river access points.

David McEvers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted McEvers, Grayling, has been sworn into the State Bar of Michigan. He has opened a law office on Huron Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Derek McEvers have purchased Sorenson's Funeral Home. The Funeral Home has been serving this community for 80 years.

Mrs. Maggie Leverton is carrying her left hand in a bandage, having received severe burns while trying to put out a fire that threatened her home in Beaver Creek.

Twelve more Grayling men have signed the lighted athletic field petition since last week although no concerted effort has been made to circulate it. A meeting this week is expected to lay out a campaign for finance as well as a schedule for starting construction and seeking the co-operation of all concerned in the field.

46 Years Ago

November 26, 1953

For the first time in years, the Grayling High School bands Senior and Beginner's Bands will present a concert in the late fall.

The first examination for Postmaster at Frederic will be held under new, more exacting eligibility requirements. The salary for the postmaster will be $4,770.

A pinto albino deer was shot near Hartwick Pines State Park last

Libra
September 23-October 23

Lashing out is not the answer. It is very important that you keep your temper under control. Remember what happened the last time you "lost it." This is not the week to blow your diet. With the holidays right around the corner, it's best to wait.

Scorpio
October 24-November 22

Expanding your ideas and ideals should be the goal of your week. You'll gain a lot with travel, reading or study. Don't let your location hold you back. Instead, put your resourcefulness and ingenuity to use. You can expand your future.

Sagittarius
November 23-December 21

A certain obligation may seem to be holding you back. Find a way to work around it; you'll be able to get duties and extracurricular activities done. Plan on spending time with a sibling or child this weekend. Keep your promises.

Capricorn
December 22-January 20

Lifestyle changes may result in extra tension. There's no turning back—just face it head on and move ahead. Those around you will be more understanding and supportive than you ever thought possible.

Aquarius
January 21-February 18

Be frugal this week. It's certainly not the time to go off the deep end when it comes to spending. Your friends are not expecting big, luxurious gifts. They would rather you give from the heart. Your extravagance makes them feel uncomfortable.

Pisces
February 19-March 20

Don't let a close friend discourage you from meeting your goals. He/she is envious of your current situation, and that makes him/her even more green when it comes to your future. Instead, lead with your heart and listen to your head.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Green Bean Casserole

1 can (10 3/4 oz) condensed cream of mushroom soup
3/4 cup milk
1/8 tsp. pepper
2 pkgs. (9 oz. each) frozen cut green beans, thawed, or 2 cans (14.5 oz. each) cut green beans, drained
1 1/3 cups french fried onions

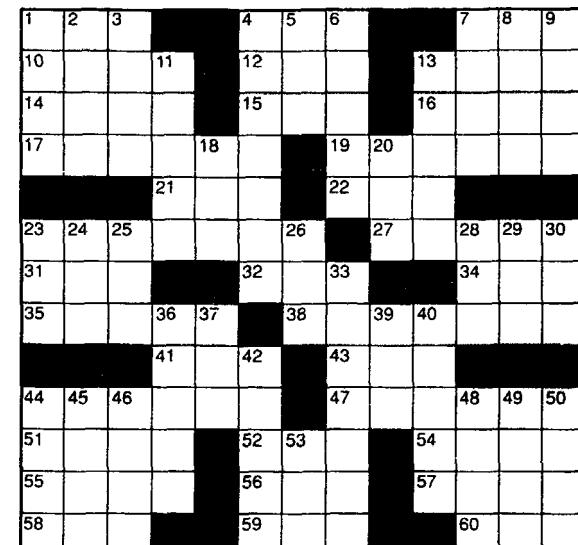

1. In 1 1/2 quart casserole, combine soup, milk and pepper; stir until well blended. Stir in beans and 2/3 cup french fried onions. 2. Bake at 350°F for 30 minutes or until hot. Stir. Sprinkle with remaining 2/3 cup onions. Bake 5 minutes or until onions are golden. Makes 6 servings.

HOME NEEDED - Spayed female beagle mix is 8 months old, very gentle and loves to cuddle. To adopt any of the pets available, stop by or give the Animal Shelter of Crawford County a call at 348-4117.
